NGARRINDJERI

Emma Stenhouse is a proud Ngarrindjeri woman and a contemporary indigenous artist on a journey of self discovery, deepening her connection with her family, exploring her heritage, and inspired by her love of Country. Emma encapsulates her knowledge in her storyworks formed by her deep relationship to land and guided by strong female role models in her community.

I step on unfamiliar land, between the shadows and the light. My path is stretched out before me. It is lined by those who have walked ahead, ready to guide my way. My confusion at where to stand the light or the shadows is compounded by feelings connected to my past, my present and what the future may hold. This is my path and I must walk it my way, I hope to do it right. Guided by the stars, the spirits I can't see, my connection to this Country helps me belong to me.
